Fiber Optic: Technology That Support Your Business

Technology is something that always evolve, specially in telecommunication industry. Almost every year, there is a new technology on the market and replacing the old technology that is considered no longer viable. As you seen on the market, many wireless technology has been introduced on the market such as 3G and Wimax, but still Fiber Optic is the fastest and the most stable telecommunication technology available today and the future.

Fiber Optic cores are strands of optically pure glass as thin as a human hair that can carry digital information over long distances. Fiber Optic was developed in 1970 and since then has revolutionized the communication industries and played an important roles in Information & Communication Technology Era. Fiber Optic is considered as the system that revolutionizing telecommunications because its reliability and capability to transfer bigger data on long distance compared to the conventional system that we knew.

Optical fiber is generally chosen for systems requiring higher bandwidth or spanning longer distances than electrical cable can accommodate. The difference from fiber optic cable compared to copper wire, is that fiber optic uses the light wave to transmit data, while copper wire uses electronic wave.

What are the advantages of using Fiber Optic network compared to the copper wire?

1. More Bandwidth

Fiber Optic network operates in high speed even into terabits (Tbps). 1 Tbps = 1,000,000 Mbps.

2. Longer Distance

All submarine cable network that connects between countries or islands are using Fiber Optic. It can transmit data in thousands of KM.

3. No Electrical Interference

Fiber Optic is safe to use near high-voltage equipment or between areas with different earth potentials.

4. Smaller Cable Size

It is very important where cable space is limited, such as wiring an existing building, where smaller channels can be drilled and space can be saved in existing cable ducts and trays.

5. Very Secure

Fiber Optic is very secure in data transmission. It's very hard to tap the network.

Nowadays where Data Communication and Internet have played an important role in communications, it is very important to choose the best network technology to support your business. Why wait? Fiber Optic is the answer for your needs.
